The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

They Live High on Tax $$$

Through a rather circuitous newspath comes an interesting view of the benefits enjoyed by those we elect to serve us at the nation's capital — our U.S. Senators and Representatives.

The information comes by the way of William Zilker, one of our long-time subscribers. He clipped it from his hometown newspaper, the LAKE REGION PRESS of Alexandria, Minn. The editor there took it from a publication identified only as THE LIFE AGENT.

When put together as it is in the article, it brings with it considerable irritation. Some will regard the $10,000 annual salary deduction as sinful. Other will rebel at the top salary of $57,500 — $1,106 a week — drawn from taxpayers.

But if none of that bothers you, check over this itemized list of benefits that accrue to those who represent you in Washington. You'll find something to arouse your anger.

It should also be noted that these incomes are indexed for inflation which means that the more of our money they waste, the more our Congressmen will receive as higher costs of living are crushing the taxpayer.

Here is the list as published in the Minnesota newspaper:

- Special Tax Deduction to $10,000 for living in Washington D.C. area.
- Private subway from offices to capital.
- Private elevators.
- Private police force — 120 officers — $17 million annually.
- Private dining room.
- Subsidized dining prices (estimated loss at $8,000 per senator).
- Subsidized hair cuts — $3.00.
- Free postage.
- Telephone — $5200 for local service plus 15,000 times the highest long distance telephone rate per minute to the member's district.
- Subsidized recording studio.
- Subsidized shoeshines.
- Subsidized car wash — $3.00.
- 26 round trips per year to district.
- Special auto licenses & no parking tickets.
- 2 botanical plants every other month to each office and free ice.
- 2 rent-free offices (one in D.C. and one in district).
- $4,000 office furnishing allowances — $9,000 for electrical and mechanical equipment.
- $27,000 Washington, D.C. office furnishings & equipment.
- $4,000 carpets and drapery allowances.
- 50 free picture frames.
- Free prints from National Gallery of Art.
- Free gyms — paddle ball, basketball courts, sauna, weight room, olympic-size pool.
- 1 steamer trunk per year.
- $100,000 life insurance — $432 annual premium.
- Free funerals.
- $6500 stationery allowances plus 480,000 free envelopes.
- $50 per diem domestic.
- $75 per diem in local currency abroad.
- Limit 12 congresspersons per U.S. plane to leave room for spouses, families, aides, etc. (this costs $3300 per member).
- Pensions —
 - $9,396 annual after 6 years service
 - $21,563 annual after 15 years service
 - $46,000 tops.

Woman Pistol-Whipped In L.G. Gas Station

The Lemon Grove gunman pointed a .32 cal. revolver at Elaine Mary Shrum, 25, Friday night at 7 p.m.

He had bought 5 gallons of gasoline in a can and instead of paying for it, demanded money.

Shrum, who was on duty at the U.S.A. Station at Broadway and New Jersey in Lemon Grove, began to struggle and scream.

Schrum screamed, "Help, I'm being robbed," and the robber, described as a Mexican male, 5-7, 18-24 threatened would-be rescuers with his gun. He then pistol-whipped her, cutting a gash alongside her head.

The robber then fled south on New Jersey. Shrum was transported to Grossmont Hospital for treatment.

A resident later reported seeing a person answering the description of the robber in the 7600 block of Pacific ave. He had been there about an hour prior to the holdup.

Police are holding several articles dropped by the robber in his flight.

Man Shot in LG Defending Relative

A 27-year-old Mira Mesa man was shot in his chest and neck during an argument Saturday, at 1639 Angelus ave., Lemon Grove.

William Edward Murray was shot 4 times after an argument with a 32-year old man over the treatment of Murray's relative, Sherrie E. Rittel, 13.

Rittel, Murray and the man had been playing pool in the garage of Rittel's parents' residence when the man allegedly threatened the girl.

When Murray told him to leave the girl alone, the man picked up a pool cue, started attacking him, then ran back into the garage, picked up a pistol and fired it, Rittel told sheriff's deputies.

When she ran back into the house to fetch her father, the two men struggled outside. While Rittel's father tried to break up the fight, the man ran away.

Sheriff's deputies later found a blood-stained .25 caliber automatic in the house. The suspect was still at large at press time.

Chicken Heads AFCW Celebration

The egg-xalted KGB-Chicken has agreed to serve as the official "Chicken of Ceremonies" for the current America's Finest City Week celebration through Sunday, according to S. D. City Mayor Pete Wilson.

Wilson promptly declared him to be America's Finest Chicken.

The KGB-Chicken is participating in several of the hundreds of AFC Week events, including the Half-Marathon, the Andre Kostelanetz Symphony Spectacular and Airport (greeting) Day. He has, however, flatly refused to be part of AFC's opening day World's Greatest Home State Picnic.

"I don't relish the thought of being a picnicking chicken or have anything to do with Kentucky," the Chicken said.

"I do hope that all San Diegans truly do get egged on to participate in the many events. The admission is usually free or otherwise chicken-feed."

Re-application Rule Waived, However

Lemon Grove Church Project Must Fit Community Plan, Council Insists

By Max Goodwin

The Lemon Grove City Council got a nearly 2-hour sermon from Pastor John Meacham of the New Life Chapel Monday night but he failed to overthrow the earlier decision of the L.G. Planning Commission.

The pastor, for his church organization, had asked for a special use permit to construct a 9,230 sq. ft. addition to the existing church building at 2115 Imperial ave.

The planning commission had turned down his request earlier because the intended enrollment (250) at the proposed day school which was to be housed in the new building would produce traffic, parking and noise problems.

New High Schoolers Need To Register; Dates & Times Given

High school students (grades 9 through 12) who'll be attending local schools of the Grossmont district for the first time this fall should register at the schools next week.

The sole exception is Skyline High School in Lemon Grove, one of the Grossmont district's two continuation schools, where registration for new students will be Sept 6 and 7, by appointment only.

New student registration dates and times for Helix, Mt. Miguel and Monte Vista high schools are:

Helix — 9 through 11:30 a.m. and 1 through 2:30 p.m. Aug. 28; 8 through 11:30 a.m. and 1 through 2:30 p.m. Aug. 29-31.

Mt. Miguel — 7 a.m. through 3 p.m. Aug. 29 through Sept. 1.

Monte Vista — 7:40 a.m. through Sept. 1. New Monte Vista students are urged to call for a counseling appointment due to the volume of new students.

Registration packets were mailed during the summer to returning students, who will register the week of Sept. 5.

Riding Horses Hit by $10 Tax

A $10 pleasure riding trail tax on horses has been adopted by the County of San Diego to create revenues for acquiring, developing and maintaining pleasure riding trails.

The County will begin collecting the $10 user tax effective January 1 under the provision of the pleasure riding trail tax ordinance.

Unanimously approved by the Board of Supervisors, the ordinance authorizes a tax on horses used primarily for pleasure riding or trail use. Several horse categories, including commercial and race horses, are exempt from the tax.

According to Rudy Massman, director, the mechanics of collecting the tax are still in the planning stage.

"The ordinance is only the first step in creating revenues for pleasure riding trails," he explained. Massman said that only a moderate amount of revenue will be realized from the tax in the first year.

"Implementing riding and hiking trails plan and program, including procedures for collecting fees and issuing licenses will necessarily come from taxes collected and whatever grant monies that may be come available," he said.

Massman indicated that an ideal first year County Riding and Hiking Trails Program would cost about $32,000 plus the additional cost of collection and licensing.

"Given a $15,000 limitation for all costs minus the cost of collection and licensing based on projected first year revenue, we anticipate that many trails' enthusiasts whose expectations are higher will find the first year's output disappointing."

"not consistent with planning" for the area.

There was also the matter of unauthorized grading and hillside cutting which had concerned the planning commission as well as the Council.

Meacham in his presentation quoted copiously from the Bible and twice called upon the Bill of Rights as a basis for his objections to the decision.

He was finally halted by Councilman Dell Lake, backed up by City Attorney Don McLean who requested that the presentation be restricted to the issue — that of meeting the criteria established under the L.G. community plan.

Several supporters of the development also asked approval of the church's application for the special use permit and several persons neighboring the project spoke in opposition.

In the end the vote was 4-1 supporting the decision of the planning commission and James Butler, the planning commissioner. Councilman Jack Doherty cast the lone vote opposing the decision.

In an informal discussion immediately after the vote was taken, members of the Council agreed to waive the one-year prohibition for re-application providing Meacham would adjust his request to meet existing zoning requirements.

In other business, the Council adopted the final city general fund budget of $1,578,000. Capital expenses are not included since they come generally from other jurisdictions, such as the road repair expenses which are paid for out of state gasoline tax collections.

Council also: Requested the county to continue enforcement of the city's health related ordinances;

Established a million dollar capital reserve fund;

Adopted an ordinance (No. 27) controlling pre-prepared sandwiches and other food sold from trucks and vending machines;

Adopted an amended ordinance (No. 28) which prohibits loud or unusual noises in L.G. parks;

Adopted an ordinance (No. 29) setting up purchasing procedures;

Heard the first reading of an ordinance which would repeal the Municipal Code regarding tuberculin skin tests for food handlers.

The Council also agreed on policy by which a dial-a-ride transportation system for the city could be established under a Metro Transit System Development Board subsidy.

The fare would be 50 cents, limits of the service would be the city limits and a private cab company would probably supply the vehicles and drivers rather than the city.

Council also approved a road engineering report by the private firm of Bement, Dainwood and Sturgeon regarding streets in the city which were in need of repair. A list of 22 streets in need of resurfacing was provided. The list carries a repair bill of $250,000.

Vote Due in November

Mayor of Board Of Supervisors?

Six propositions to amend the San Diego County Charter will be placed on the November general election ballot as the result of an ordinance adopted by the Board of Supervisors with a unanimous vote.

The proposed amendments to the Charter, each of which must obtain a simple majority or 51 per cent of the votes cast in order to become effective, include changing the title of the presiding officer or presiding officer pro tem of the Board of Supervisors from chairwoman or chairman to mayor or mayor pro tem, respectively; revising the personnel system; changing the term of members of the Board of Education from six years to four years; changing the time for filling a Board of Education vacancy from 30 to 45 days; and providing the Board with the option of hiring the Superintendent of Schools either with or without a fixed term contract.

Other amendments would change the office of the Recorder from elective to appointive; and change the office of the Treasurer/Tax Collector from elective to appointive.

The complete text of the proposed amendments is on file with the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors at the County Administration Center, 1600 Pacific highway, San Diego. In addition, each qualified voter in the County will be mailed the complete text of the proposed amendments 10 days prior to the November 1978 election.

Cuyamaca College To Open Monday

Cuyamaca College, Grossmont College's 2nd campus, will open its doors to its first class of students on Monday and college officials and construction personnel are racing to meet a series of last-minute deadlines in order to open on schedule.

"Things will be a little hectic for the first few weeks," said Cuyamaca President Wallace Cohen.

"No matter how long and carefully you plan, there will be always last minute delays, lost shipments, and unforeseen difficulties and we're having our share," he added, "but we'll open on time with a quality educational program provided by a first-rate faculty and staff."

Roads and parking lots will be of the dirt variety for the first 2 to 3 months and books and supplies will be sold out of a temporary bookstore. Food services will be limited to vending machines until the new bookstore is completed sometime before the first of the year.

During the 1978-79 year construction projects involving roads and parking lots, a permanent bookstore, and instructional facilities for automotive technology, ornamental horticulture and landscape maintenance, major appliance repair, welding, and industrial technology will be under construction at the college site at 2950 Jamacha rd., Rancho San Diego.

County Zaps Property Developers With New, Higher Fee Schedules

As every property developer knows, a handful of permits must be obtained in order to build on his land.

The County Board of Supervisors this week approved an increase in their fees of some 40 different classifications of real estate permits.

In Lemon Grove, permits must also be obtained — but they are obtained from the city and are selling at the former rate.

Some of the more popular permits are listed herewith.

A couple of County fees and the L.G. City fees are listed here for comparison.

Between July 1 and August 7 L.G. residents applied for 19 permits.

Of that total, 5 applied for Special Use Permits at $375 a permit. The County will get $1,250 for each application next month.

4 of the 19 applied to file Tentative Parcel Maps at $250 each. The County will charge $380. Tentative Parcel Maps, usually referred to as Lot Splits, are the most popularly requested permits.

Two classes, not yet applied for in L.G. City, are rezones (Reclassifications) now costing $355 at the County, to be increased to $1,250. Tentative Maps (for 5 or more lots) now $780 will be $1,300 next month.

Group To Investigate Health Fraud Schemes

"The crazies, the crooked and the convinced" who perpetrate health fraud will be ferreted out and exposed by a new organization announced recently in San Francisco.

Dr. William Jarvis, associate professor of preventive and community dentistry at Loma Linda University, said the organization, to be known as the California Council Against Health Fraud, Inc. (CCHAF), will take an active role in combating what he termed "ever escalating numbers of health fraud cases against the public."

More often than not, according to the Southern California educator, victims of health fraud are the ill and the elderly. "When you become seriously sick you have a tendency to believe things you would never, ever believe if you were healthy. That's one of the key reasons why Americans are bilked of millions of dollars each year."

One of the largest areas of health fraud is in nutrition, Jarvis said. "People are told that they need this supplement or that supplement to maintain good health," he said. "In fact, all they have to do is balance their diets by eating from the four basic food groups... milk, meat, vegetables and fruits, and breads and cereals."

The CCHAF membership is comprised of a variety of physicians, dentists, nurses, researchers, lawyers and others who are intent on fighting quackery.

GO CHARGERS! — San Diego's pro football team may not be doing so hot, but that hasn't dampened the enthusiasm of Charlotte (Charlie) Gunderson, last year's Miss Lemon Grove who's now shaking her pompons as one of the 21 Charger Charge cheerleaders. She was one of 140 girls who tried out, but noted that the L.A. Rams had 850 tryouts — because the Rams pay their cheerleaders, which the Chargers don't. Add to that the cost of supplying her own nylons, trunks and drycleaning of her uniform (the vests, coats and boots were subsidized by area businesses, to the tune of $200 per uniform) plus three evening rehearsals a week and it got to be quite a grind. Why does she do it? "The publicity," she said frankly, "could lead to offers of contracts for TV commercials or movies." Another photo, page 5.

MRS. TERRANCE FARLEY

Carol Houze Claimed as Bride in July

The marriage of the former Carol Annette Houze and Terrance Joseph Farley was solemnized July 28 at the Christian Church of Lemon Grove in a 1 o'clock ceremony. The Rev. Larry Johnson officiated. The bride, daughter of Mrs. Donald W. Houze, 643 Thayer dr., Spring Valley, was also graduated from Monte Vista High school and is employed as a salesclerk at Walker-Scott in College Grove. The bridegroom, son of Mr. Bernard Farley, 9135 Cambon st., Spring Valley, was also graduated from Monte Vista High school and is a landscaper at Mt. Miguel Covenant Village in Spring Valley. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, John M. Houze. Gale Sonora, cousin of the bride, hosted a garden party for 100 guests. The couple honeymooned at Grand Canyon and are residing in El Cajon.

Youth For Christ Group Commended by Van Deerlin

"Government cannot do everything. We in the community must take the initiative in solving our own problems," Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Chula Vista, said Monday during a discussion of juvenile problems on a four-hour "youth special" on Channel 8. The South Bay congressman praised the accomplishments of San Diego Youth for Christ, which was spotlighted by the special, "Where Have All The Children Gone?" He said in any year Youth for Christ works with some 25,000 young people in the county, about 6,000 of whom receive in-depth counseling and other specialized services. Noting that Youth for Christ's $600,000 annual budget is raised entirely through local contributions, Van Deerlin said the local organization has demonstrated "just how true is the old truism that charity begins at home." Youth for Christ, founded through Evangelist Billy Graham, has been operating in San Diego for 35 years. It sponsors guidance and recovery programs for youth coping with problems such as alcohol and drug abuse, family breakdowns, running away and suicide. Its best known programs are Campus Life and Youth Guidance, flourishing in high schools. Van Deerlin was interviewed on Channel 8 by Ken Overstreet, Youth for Christ executive director for 20 years.

Marylin Theresa Kotnik, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond S. Kotnik, of 8055 Canton dr., Lemon Grove, was claimed as bride August 5 by Larry Dean McBrayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin D. McBrayer, of Stickney, S. Dakota. The 2 o'clock ceremony was held in the auditorium of St. John of the Cross Catholic Church in Lemon Grove with the Rev. Daniel Rondeau officiating. The newlyweds toured the west coast on their honeymoon before returning to set up residence in Santee. Mrs. McBrayer was graduated from Mt. Miguel High school in 1968, Grossmont College in 1970 and from Grossmont Vocational Nursing School in 1970. The bridegroom attended U. of S. Dakota and San Diego City College.

Dog Disease Affects California Canines

The California Veterinary Medical Association is issuing an animal health alert, urging all dog owners to be aware of a new contagious virus disease which has infected a significant number of dogs, especially puppies, across the country. Scientists assume at this time that it is an airborne virus (Corona Virus) whose incubation period seems to be from three to twelve days. The initial symptoms are lethargy and digestive upset; i.e., decrease in appetite, then diarrhea and vomiting (both can become severe). An unusually fetid odor seems to be a characteristic of the illness. The disease can appear suddenly and progress very rapidly in some, with death occurring as quickly as 48 hours after the initial clinical signs. If your dog exhibits any signs of the above symptoms, consult your veterinarian immediately. The California Veterinary Medical Association advises dog owners to keep their dogs on leashes and be aware at all time with whom your animal comes in contact in order to minimize the possibility of exposure to the disease.

'Parables' Play Set for Sept. 6

The Rapture Repertory Theatre will present its musical play "Parables," adapted from the parables of Jesus Christ, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, September 6 at the Civic Theatre in downtown San Diego.

360-Mile Freeway Link Complete to Arizona

The Colorado River Bridge in Yuma, Arizona, the last section of the 360-mile Interstate 8 freeway linking California and local officials on hand. The $7.4 million bridge in Yuma, which will be open in mid-September, is the final link in the I-8 freeway beginning in San Diego and ending in Central Arizona near Casa Grande. The route begins within sight of the Pacific Ocean near sea level and gently rises over 4,000 feet through several mountain ranges before dropping into the desert of Imperial Valley. In the valley, I-8 dips 200 feet below sea level then up through the sand hills and across the Colorado River into Yuma, Arizona. In Arizona the route follows the Gila Trail where many pioneers trod. On through Gila Bend and 60 miles later, I-8 ends at Interstate 10, roughly 60 miles south of Phoenix. Records indicate the 180-mile California section of I-8 averaged $1 million a mile. Arizona's costs are unavailable, but are judged to be less than California's.

There's An Answer!

by Norman Vincent Peale and Ruth Stafford Peale
Feels bewitched

Q. I must be bewitched. Although I don't really believe in witches I must be. The world has fallen on me. My wife ran away with another man. I got fired from a job I held for 19 years. Then my son ran away and got married and I haven't seen him since. Now I can't hold a job because of depression and a useless feeling. I've lost my home and most of my money on cars and car wrecks. Lost my driver's license for six months for driving under the influence. Tomorrow will probably bring some bad news because if I didn't have bad luck I'd have no luck at all. A. You are not bewitched. Your trouble can very well be that you are constantly expecting some bad thing to happen and therefore you actually stimulate such unhappy results. There is a deep tendency in human nature to become precisely like that which we imagine ourselves to be. The projected image can be either destructive or creative. It is possible that you have allowed a series of bad breaks to condition your mind to expect more of the same. Expectation produces in kind. You'd better try to become a positive thinker. And you can if you want to badly enough and if you really work at it. In the hope that it will help you in your efforts, we are placing you on our mailing list to receive "Creative Help for Daily Living," a monthly mailing of inspirational literature. Anyone who wishes a free copy of this publication may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

Believe him or forget him?

Q. My friend is a first lieutenant in the army. He calls and sends me cards but never writes a letter. He claims he has a lot of responsibility. Should I believe him or should I forget I ever knew him? A. We believe you should take him as he is. He just doesn't like to write letters. If you want a boy friend on the basis of whether he writes letters, you had better get that type.

Praying for death

Q. At the age of six years I was sexually abused by a teenage neighbor. For 20 years I have been living with depression. I feel inadequate, cheap, dirty and worthless. This depression and traumatic incident is destroying not only me, but also my marriage. I've gone back into praying for death and wanting some peace from my ghosts. Nobody will listen to me. So where am I? I'm lost, confused, tired and afraid; but most of all—alone. A. You seem to do a pretty good job of psychologically analyzing yourself, but not such a good job in healing yourself. Of course you are not "inadequate, cheap, dirty and worthless." You are simply thinking the wrong kind of thoughts, and those thoughts, being unhealthy, increase your personality sickness. It is stupid to pray for death; but very smart to pray for life. You can live a healthy, happy life at age 26 if you start thinking that you can. Forget the past and walk away from it. If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564. If you would like to talk directly with a Prayer Partner, call Prayer Line (212) 481-1000. Reduced, long-distance rates are in effect nights and weekends.

'Owl and Pussycat' To Open Tonight at Fiesta Dinner Theatre

The Fiesta Dinner Theatre announces the opening of the one-month run of the adult comedy, "Owl and the Pussycat," tonight, 8:30 p.m. curtain time, 9665 Campo rd., Spring Valley.

This contemporary tickler shows what can happen when you open your door to a stranger after midnight, especially if the stranger is a shapely, but angry siren.

The result is catastrophic, for the self-righteous bookworm (the owl) and the pulsating lady-of-the-night (the pussycat) who are caged together.

Actor David Westberg plays the writer, who pretends he's above animal instincts. Mr. Westberg has appeared in many television productions, notably: "Emergency," "Phyllis," "The Young Lawyer," "Adam 12," and "Logans Run." Feature films include: "The Graduate," "Tora, Tora, Tora," and "Logans Run." His stage experience cites lead roles in "Lion in Winter," "On a Clear Day," "A Shot in the Dark," "Cabaret," and "The Rainmaker," among others.

Linda Zernecke plays the opposition, as the soft, not-so-pure girl with the body who discovers she has a mind.

"The Owl and the Pussycat" is directed by Frank Wayne.

The Fiesta Dinner Theatre is open nightly except Mondays, with dinner at 7 p.m., curtain at 8:30; matinees are Wednesday and Sunday, with service at 12 and performance at 1:15 p.m. Cocktails are available.

The one-admission theatre package includes dinner, show, tax, and parking, from $9 to $13.50. For reservation call 697-8911 for further information.

'The Ritz' to Open On Coronado Stage

"The Ritz," a humorous play about a dying patriarch's last wish and its realization, will open at 8 p.m. Friday at the Coronado Playhouse.

The comedy will run Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays till October 7. Tickets are $5 with discounts for students, senior citizens and non-commissioned military available. For reservation call 435-4856.

FedFunds to Aid Goodland Park

3 emergency flood repair projects costing $68,500 will begin within the next few weeks in San Diego county, reports Pat Burke of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service in Escondido.

The projects are located in: 1. Goodland Acres, near Central Ave. on Troy St. in Spring Valley; 2. Stevens Creek, just north of the Del Mar Race Track along Border and Stevens Ave. near Del Mar; and 3. Live Oak Park Channel two miles west of Hwy 395, in Live Oak Park near Fallbrook.

Restoration work involves vegetative and structural stream bank protection, and reconstruction of water control structures. This assistance is authorized by the federal flood control act of 1950 and is sponsored by the San Diego County Flood Control District.

The SCS in cooperation with the Greater Mountain Empire, Mission, and Palomar Resource Conservation Districts are providing the money and technical help. "Through the emergency watershed program, we are trying to safeguard lives and property from flooding and erosion damages caused by the heavy rain storms of last winter," said Burke.

60 YEARS AND COUNTING — Mary and John Mahorter, former Lemon Grove residents who are 85 and 81 years young, respectively, get ready to celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary, next Monday. The Mahorters, of 4617 Terry Ln., La Mesa, who lived in Lemon Grove 1965 through 1968, also had their 50th anniversary commemorated in the Lemon Grove Review, 10 years ago. Their anniversary will be celebrated by members of the Lemon Grove Senior Citizens Club at the Lemon Grove United Church of Christ during the club's regular meeting 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday, with the Mahorters' daughter, Mrs. John Harrell, serving wedding cake and ice cream. Mahorter, a retired military postmaster and his wife, a retired schoolteacher, came to San Diego County from Culver, Indiana and although they're residents of the formerly unincorporated Rolando area now annexed to the City of La Mesa, "we feel more like Lemon Grove is home," said Mrs. Mahorter.

A Story of Your Private Life —and It Only Costs a Quarter

The history of your private life, once held sacrosanct, is available for public dissemination from the Department of Motor Vehicle files for less than 25 cents a copy.

You'll probably blush when you recall that there were some pretty personal questions asked you in that questionnaire that qualified you to take your driver's test.

Companies requesting information in quantity from DMV files spent $2.7 million in the first 6 months of 1978 (January-June) for more than 11 million record items identifying driver licenses, registration of vehicles, and vessels, and lists of automobile dealers. That figures out to be less than 25c a report.

The Public Records Act of 1968, and Vehicle Code Section 1808, open most driver and vehicle records to public inspection, within certain limits.

The firms seeking information from DMV files must state in a letter on file with the department the purpose for which the information will be used. Fees charged to reimburse the department for the cost of providing the data are $25 per 1,000 items for copies of DMV's daily transactions, 75 cents for individual vehicle and vessel requests for registration items, and 50 cents each for driver license information.

To obtain driver license information, a specific driver's license number, name and/or birthdate must be supplied by the requester.

Some purposes for which this data is purchased to confirm validity of driver's license presented for check-cashing purposes; to review a policy holder's driving record to set insurance premiums; to provide research and marking information; and to check on credit applications.

Commercial firms noted below were the largest purchasers of information from DMV's files.

From out-of-state: R. L. Polk and Company, Cincinnati, $117,655.

Southern California: Motor Registration News, Fullerton, $33,467; Farmers Underwriters, L. A., $35,317; Financial Research Consultants, $1,084; 785; Interinsurance Exchange, Auto Club of S. Cal., $15,515; Insurance System, Inc., Irvine, $14,757; Petroleum Collections, Inc., $13,145.

Northern California: Continental Insurance Co., San Francisco, $19,990; State Farm Mutual Auto Insurance Co., Robert Park, $15,424; Cal. Farms Insurance Co., Berkeley, $18,544; Inco Systems, Corp., San Francisco, $10,330; Lumbermens Mutual Casualty, San Francisco, $11,556.

Sacramento: Data Search, $27,824; Equifax, $891,253; Searching Registration Service, $73,550; and Vehicle Operators Searches, $48,468.

Car Crash Restraints Can Save Child's Life

Many parents don't realize the force involved in an automobile crash. At 20 miles per hour, a 30-pound child becomes like a 600-pound forward flying missile, hurtling into the dashboard.

Statistics show that automobile accidents are the leading cause of death in children under 5. But, the real tragedy is that many of the deaths and injuries could have been prevented.

The solution is relatively simple—buckle up your child in crash tested car restraints during every trip in a car. To help you know what to look for when you shop for child car restraints, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has a new, free publication. For your copy of "Auto Safety and Your Child," send a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 696F, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

There are several different types of approved crash-tested devices:

One for infants is a restraint that keeps baby riding backwards in a semi-reclining position. A tiny infant may require additional padding to prevent flopping from side to side while traveling in a car restraint.

Receiving blankets can be rolled up and tucked on either side of the infant to provide additional support. Check with your doctor for advice and be sure to read the manufacturer's specifications.

Another type of restraint is the chair type with a harness — the harness usually comes across the lap, over both shoulders and through the legs.

Older children, of course, are generally big enough to use the regular seat belts in your car.

Remember that the back seat of the car is the safest place to put the safety restraint, unless the driver has to supervise the child closely. And, the center of the back seat is best.

If you're wondering whether to buy a new restraint or use a hand-me-down, here's a warning to follow: old seats that just hook over or under the passenger seat do not protect. They should be destroyed.

Concert Highlights 'Finest City' Week

The San Diego Symphony Orchestra has scheduled a special concert to salute "America's Finest City" Week tomorrow at 8 p.m. in San Diego State University's Aztec Bowl.

The concert will feature guest conductor Andre Kostelanetz and will include the "1812 Overture" complete with fireworks, booming cannons and mortar.

Tickets priced at $4 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12 are on sale now at the Symphony Office in Balboa Park, Aztec Ticket Office, Sears, Wards and all Ticketron locations. The number is 239-9721.

This Week's RECIPE

By Susanne Williams

In the summertime refrigerators tend to become mausoleums for inexpensive fruit that was purchased in major quantities but never quite made its way to the stomach.

In case yours contains leftover fruit that has lost its purchase-inspiring good looks but is far from rotten, this low-calorie dessert will appeal to your desire to prevent waste and yet serve a great, refreshing dish.

Tutti-Fruitti

- 1 pound low fat cottage cheese
- 1 lonely orange, peeled and sliced
- 3 deserted apricots, sliced
- 2 tired-looking peaches, sliced

Put all ingredients in a blender; blend at low or medium speed until cottage cheese has lost most of its curds. Pour into glasses and top each with a slice of peach or apricot; refrigerate until serving time. Makes 4 servings.

This idea works for practically any fruit — cherries, strawberries, pineapple, blueberries. If more sweetness is desired, add sugar or honey to taste or pour a few tablespoons of commercial orange juice into the mixture before blending.

Harvest Fair Set

The Annual 4-H Harvest Fair will be held on Saturday, from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Encanto 4-H Garden at 6935 Jamacha Road in Encanto.

Fresh vegetables and vegetable preserves will be exhibited and judged during the day. All community gardeners and home gardeners in San Diego County are invited to attend. Exhibits must be in place by 10 a.m. in order to be judged and receive ribbon prizes.

The annual fair will have many activities including free horseback rides for kids, games, vegetable judging classes for prizes, and a petting zoo made up of 4-H project animals. Food and refreshments will be sold.

The number is 263-2492, or 565-5389.

Chin East County United Way Head

Harold S. Chin has been appointed associate area director of United Way's East County District.

In his new position, Chin will assist in all aspects of United Way operation in East County including fund raising, agency allocations and work with volunteers.

Prior to moving to San Diego, Chin was a United Way of America intern, one of 10 selected nationally from a field of 112 applicants. During his internship, a period of accelerated training designed to prepare persons for professional United Way careers, Chin worked at two United Ways.

Travelog Films Set At El Cajon Center

Switzerland, the U.S.A., the Polynesian Islands, Spain, and Bavaria are among the subjects of new adventure-travelog films to be presented at the East County Performing Arts Center, 210 E. Main st., El Cajon. The film series entitled "An Orbital View of the Current Scene" will begin on Thursday, August 31, at 2 and 7:30 p.m., and is sponsored by the Grossmont Community College District.

Each film is new, in color, and will feature in-person narration by its producer.

Series tickets are $2.50 for the entire 5 programs. Individual program tickets will be $1, with all tickets available at the box office 45 minutes before each program.

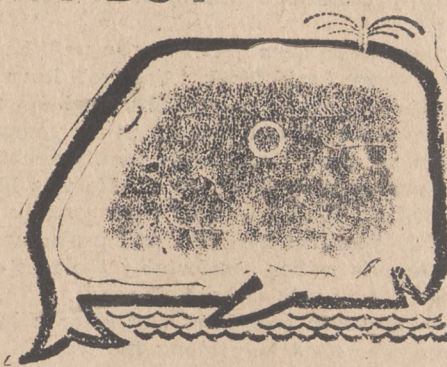

The first film, "Switzerland in Four Seasons," will be shown on August 31 at 2 and 7:30 p.m. Veteran actor, director, and filmmaker Curt Matson will personally narrate the film, which will explore one of the world's most photogenic countries. Dr. E. A. Farrar will introduce Matson.

NFL Record Book Must For Pro Fans

Pro football fans should obtain a copy of the Official 1978 National Football League Record Manual.

The 416-page paperback, the essential record book of pro football, is produced by the NFL office and Elias Sports Bureau. It is a perennial favorite of collectors, and is the same reference work used by sportscasters and sportswriters in their research.

RECORD MANUAL contains the all-time, Super Bowl, AFC-NFC championship, play-off, overall postseason, and Pro Bowl records. Also included in the information-packed book are statistical recaps of the 1977 NFL season and accounts of all postseason play-off games, an informative chronology of professional football, biographies of all 98 members of the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

TAKE FIVE

by John E. Wirges

President Theodore Roosevelt used to say he read the sports pages first because they reflected man's accomplishments, while the front pages reflected man's failures.

As profound as his words were back at the turn of the century, they are no less apt and perceptive today. And a classic example of men struggling toward accomplishment can be seen at the Sports Arena this Saturday night.

John Block has gathered a multi-million dollars worth of professional basketball talent for the SOUL purpose of reaching out and helping troubled youngsters learn to go "One-On-One" with their maker.

Doesn't have just one or two National Basketball Association stars coming in to help him. Block has an entire team of super stars donating their services. Block's Blockbusters could waltz through an entire season and dance home with the NBA Championship.

You couldn't buy talent that deep for any club. The only going concern that matches their worth is the Defense Department's budget.

Block's athletes aren't coming to San Diego with empty wallets, they're coming with open hearts.

The "Big E" Elvin Hayes, Randy Smith, Sven Nader, Paul Westphal, 1978 Rookie of the Year Walter Davis, Alvan Adams, Ricky Sobers, Marvin Webster are joining Block (who is making a one game comeback) in a basketball exhibition against the Athletics in Action Tuesday night to raise money for Oakridge.

"What," you ask is Oakridge? Why would all that expensive beef on the hoof donate time for something you've never even heard about?

Good questions. Here's some better answers. Oakridge is a dream. But a dream fast coming to reality. It's a dream with purpose and promise and it soon will be a dream of cement and wood and glass.

Oakridge is a camp for boys. Young men, really. Youngsters from 10 through 17 or thereabouts. And maybe adults, too.

It is a nondenominational camp 2800 feet into the mountains near Ramona where the air is clean and the sky is clear and you can feel God's magnificence as you watch the stars race the moon across the night skies.

Eventually there will be cabin space for 450 boys with a counselor for every seven or so. Camp life will include a full range of athletics. Stan Smith is heading the tennis program. Block will certainly have a hand in the basketball program. And future plans include soccer, football, swimming, baseball and all the activities that are associated with camping and living out.

And there will be a goodly dose of the Judeo-Christian philosophy of caring and sharing the burdens of life.

"We'll be nondenominational," says Block. "But we'll have time for Bible study, both old testament and new."

Block donated the 26 acres of land to the camp and joined San Diego businessmen Stan Beard, Jack Goodall, Lee Hunting, Vic Ippolito, Don Williams and Leon Brahms in Oakridge's non-profit corporation. That's when the dream started to become reality.

Over the years John and his friends have raised nearly $200,000 to get the camp started. They need another $400,000 or so to finish phase one of the project, including about $250,000 to complete the first stages of the kitchen and dining facility.

Some of the cabins are up and some of the plumbing is in. Hopefully Oakridge will open its first season next summer.

"It's our purpose to keep prices low so we'll be within everybody's range," said Block. "And we'll have some scholarships for disadvantaged youths. And down the road we'll have a rehabilitation program for youngsters fighting drugs or alcohol or having family problems."

Life has been good to John Block. He was blessed with talent and ability. He earned a reasonably small fortune over 10 years in the NBA and probably could live on investments rather comfortably the rest of his life. He chose not to ride down that road.

Instead he chose to reach out and offer a helping hand to those who need help along the way.

It is to his great credit that he counts among his friends a number of men who were equally blessed with talent and share his concern.

It isn't just a collection of semi-wealthy basketball stars that will take the floor in behalf of Oakridge on Saturday night. No sir, they sure ain't. To a man, they are also hard working, comprehending, God-fearing examples of how tall men really stand when they reach out to give a helping hand to those who are burdened with troubles.

Radio Network Signed for Game In Holiday Bowl

Robert J. Blum Productions of Las Vegas, has inked a contract with the Holiday Bowl to produce the 1978 game on an intermountain radio network.

"By signing a radio contract, the Holiday Bowl will now be seen on television or heard on radio throughout the entire country," Bowl President Vinnie Vinson said. "It is another indication of the interest that has been created by the Holiday Bowl."

"There will be more than 100 stations on the network," said Robert Blum, President of the network. "Each WAC city will carry the game. The visiting school that will be invited to the Holiday Bowl and their network will participate in the broadcast and the game will also be heard on American Forces Radio."

Blum's background includes putting together radio networks for the San Diego Chargers, Oakland Raiders, San Jose State, U. of Nevada at Las Vegas, the Pizza Hut Basketball Classic, and the East-West Shrine Game.

The radio package gives the Holiday Bowl a clean sweep with the broadcast media for the 1978 game. An independent television network was set up last month with Mizlou and over 160 stations will carry the game.

Kick-off for the Holiday Bowl will be 6 p.m., December 22, at San Diego Stadium. The game will feature the champion of the Western Athletic Conference against a major intercollegiate rival.

Ticket applications for the game are available at the Holiday Bowl ticket office, Gate F, San Diego Stadium.

PSA Goes National For Grid Charters

Pacific Southwest Airlines (PSA), has been granted for the first time in its 29-year history, authority to fly extensive football charters throughout the nation.

The recent charter approval by the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) has resulted in PSA scheduling more than 30 football charters throughout the nation, including 12 flights with the San Diego Chargers and S.D. State Aztecs.

As an intrastate airline, PSA had been restricted to offer charter service only within the state of California before the CAB decision.

PSA will carry the professional San Diego Chargers to Newark, August 25; Denver, September 16; Detroit, October 20; Oakland, October 28; Minneapolis, November 18; Kansas City, November 25 and Houston, December 16.

San Diego State will use PSA for charters to Des Moines, September 15; El Paso, September 23; Cheyenne, October 13 and Salt Lake City, November 10.

In addition to the San Diego teams, PSA will also carry UC Berkeley, Arizona State, U. of Arizona, Stanford, UCLA, and the Oakland Raiders and New England Patriots during the 1978 season.

Fall Bike Rally On Yosemite Sked

The Yosemite Fall Bike Rally will be held September 30 and October 1. Families and touring cyclists statewide will be joining in a leisurely ride around the Yosemite Valley and seeing the many beauties of nature evident there.

The Rally, sponsored by Yosemite Park and Curry Co., will be a 14-mile loop. As in past years, there is no time limit and everyone who enters — regardless of distance cycled — will receive a certificate and patch.

Honda Golf Classic In San Diego in '79

The Honda Civic Golf Classic, whose $165,000 purse is the second largest on the women's tour, will be played March 14-18 on the west course at the Rancho Bernardo Inn.

Cliff Schmitten, vice president, national sales manager of the sponsoring American Honda Motor Co., Inc., said the event would retain and expand its celebrity participation although Kathryn Crosby, who was associated with the tournament the past 2 years, will not be directly involved.

"Mrs. Crosby has made a significant contribution to the success of this tournament and we are sorry that her schedule does not permit a continuing involvement," Schmitten said. "As honorary chairperson, Mrs. Crosby helped to gain national recognition for the tournament and assisted greatly in the development of our 2-day celebrity pro-am. Honda is extremely appreciative of all her efforts."

The Honda Classic again will have a $165,000 purse and an expected field of around 115, including last year's play-off winner Sally Little and runner-up Nancy Lopez. First prize is $22,500.

The beneficiary of the event again will be the Children's Hospital and Health Center of San Diego.

Record crowds for an LPGA event attended last year and Bob Welsh, the tournament's executive director, said that gallery prices would be lowered in order to further boost attendance.

Welsh revealed:

- A season ticket possibly as low as $10.
- A drop in daily ticket admission charge.

Cajon Speedway Crown Not an Easau Shoo-in

A few weeks ago many of those in the pits at Cajon Speedway were conceding the 1978 El Cajon Stock Car Racing Assn. title to Ron Esau. The 23-year-old driver from Lakeside had a near 1000 point bulge over his nearest rival. At that point in time Esau should have been a shoo-in.

But it has been a topsy-turvy year at the 3/8 mile paved oval. As the super stocks enter their final month of competition this year, 1978 has become one of the most competitive of the 17 years on stock car racing on the Gillespie Field track.

When the super stocks take to the Cajon oval Saturday night at 8, only 6 regular races will remain on the 1978 schedule. Not one of the drivers in the top 10 is secure in his position. Point leader Ron Esau still maintains a comfortable 415 point margin over second place Gary Crossland but Esau still must sit out one of a 3-race suspension July 31.

The duel for 3rd place continues with Sonny Tomlinson now leading the hunt. Tomlinson started his climb in early June after blowing a motor in his own car and taking over Ernie Bartley's machine. Since then, the San Diego sheetrockeer has moved up steadily and has won 2 features. But Tomlinson is only 15 points ahead of the fourth place pair of Mark Norris and George Esau and only 85 up on 7th place Mike Hagerman. Norris won the show 2 weeks ago.

Qualifying Saturday night will be at 6:30 with a 9-race card on tap. A 40-lap feature will highlight one of the last 2 powder puff races of the season.

Other racing action will include two 4-lap trophy dashes, four 8-lap heat races, and the 20-car 20-lap B-main.

22 cars go in the main event. 11 drivers have won feature so far this season. Not since 1975 have so many individuals been victorious. With the 6 shows remaining, the record of 13 different winners during a season may be in jeopardy.

Among top drivers still winless are Mike Hagerman and Joe Hoagland, both of whom are among the top 10.

Outdoors & Travel

By E. L. "Buck" Rogers

I know a ski buff who broke his leg in July.

Now this sort of thing happens occasionally on all of our ski slopes during the winter, but when Doc limped into the house in the middle of the summer and started bragging about his skiing exploits, I had to ask a few questions.

"Got it in Bariloche," he bragged.

That explained the situation, of course. When our Rocky Mountain slopes are covered with wild flowers and mushroom hunters, the Argentine Andes are blanketed with snow and the winter sports season is in full swing.

If you're unfamiliar with Bariloche, it's a beautiful little alpine city nestled on the shore of lake Nahuel Huapi in the western part of the country. Although a long way from the capital city of Buenos Aires, this resort community can be reached by a pleasant two-hour flight on Austral Airlines, which offers daily flights back and forth across the country. Hotels and shops are of the chalet-type construction and so are the A-frame homes clustered around the lake. Here are no high-rise condos,

• Consideration will be given to include qualified handicappers in the field.

• An expanded syndicated network for the nationally televised rounds on Saturday and Sunday.

• Expanded list of celebrities and retention of the weekend pro-am format so that as many persons as possible can watch both the pros and the celebrities.

• Participation by nearly 150 Honda Dealers from throughout the country in a week-long schedule of tournament related activities.

• A pre-tournament tennis event and a repeat of mid-week sports clinics and exhibitions that last year featured Ann Meyers (basketball), Kate Schmidt (track and field) and Shirley Babashoff (swimming).

The Honda Classic is 72 holes (four rounds) with the celebrities playing with the low 60 pros during the final 36 holes. Little and Lopez deadlocked at 282 last year, six under par. Penny Pulz was third while Jan Stephenson and Pat Bradley tied for fourth.

The tournament layout at Rancho Bernardo once again should play about 6,200 yards. The course features 3 lakes, oversized greens and rolling fairways. More than $400,000 was spent in fairway renovation prior to last year's tournament.

"Because of last winter's rains, the benefits of last fall's planting were not fully evident," Ebersole said. "This year the course should be in terrific shape, both for the players and for the spectators."

Padres on TV 29 Times in '79

The San Diego Padres and KXTV 6 have signed a 1979 television contract calling for the broadcasting of 29 exhibition and regular season games from 10 different National League cities, it was announced by Ballard Smith, executive vice president of the club.

"The one year contract is the most attractive television package ever with a professional sports team in the San Diego market," Smith said, "and we are very pleased to continue with Channel 6. They stuck with us when times were lean and we are happy to have them as our television station as we continue to develop a legitimate pennant contender here in San Diego."

Martin Colby, station manager at Channel 6 states "We sincerely feel that the 1979 San Diego Padres will be the National League champions and because of that we are extremely pleased that KXTV Channel 6 will have the opportunity to bring 29 San Diego Padres live baseball games to the viewers. This represents the seventh consecutive year the Padres and KXTV Channel 6 have worked together and it shapes up as the most exciting local television sports programming yet seen in San Diego."

HollyPark Starts Harness Races

Racing resumes at Hollywood Park tonight when Western Harness kicks off its 33rd season. First post time will be 7:30 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays during the 79-night sulky meeting.

There will be 10 races nightly with $2 exacta wagering on the first race and $5 exacta betting on the 3rd, 5th, 7th, and 10th races. The 6th race on the card will be the feature event.

In addition to the $5 exacta on the final race, WHR will offer a $12 box. "I'm sure our fans will like it," said Director of Administration Richard Shapiro. "Instead of boxing three horses for $30, they can play the last exacta for only $12."

Grandstand admission will be $2.25 and Club House admission $4. Reserved seats for the Turf Club, Club House and Grandstand, as well as box seats, now are available by calling 678-1181, Ext. 391.

There will be a special racing program Thanksgiving night (Nov. 23) and another special card Monday, December 11, which is closing night.

HollyPark Offers Free Bet at Meet

An innovation promising to attract group patronage to the Western Harness meeting at Hollywood Park starting today, will be offered this season.

Group patrons—those coming in groups of 25 or more—will be given a coupon good for a $2 wager.

In addition, admission to the Club House with a reserved seat will be just $2.75, $3 under normal charge.

Harness races will be held Tuesday through Saturday nights with the first post time at 7:30 p.m.

Clippers Name P.R. Executive

Hal Childs, a veteran of 20 years in sports public relations and administration, has been named director of public relations for the San Diego Clippers of the National Basketball Assn., it was announced by Irv Kaze, vice president in charge of operations for the club.

Childs, 45, was director of public relations for the Seattle SuperSonics from 1967 through 1971 and assisted in the startup of that expansion franchise and also served as assistant general manager and director of public relations with the Golden State Warriors for two seasons, including the NBA championship campaign of 1974-75.

Most recently, Childs was director of public relations for the Seattle Mariners baseball club of the American League for 2 years.

The newly-named public relations director of the Clippers also includes 10 years of college experience in his background, 6 years at the U. of Oregon and 4 years at Portland State College.

Pre-Season Ends For Chargers In New York Game with Giants

The Chargers conclude the 1978 pre-season against the N.Y. Giants Saturday at 5 p.m. San Diego time.

The game will be telecast at 9 p.m. following the nationally televised NFL game. Radio coverage begins at 2:50 p.m. with Pat Curran's NFL Week-end. Ron Reina and Bruce Walton anchor Chargers Talk at 3. The Tommy Prothro Show is at 4:35. The Locker-room Show follows the game and then switches back to Chargers Talk.

Last year the Giants-Chargers game was at the S.D. Stadium and the Chargers won 29-27. Don Woods rushed for 81 yards and 16 carries and James Harris passed for 187 yards and 2 touchdowns.

The NFL season opens for the Chargers September 3 when they are hosted by Seattle in the Kingdome.

The Chargers return to home base September 10 in a NFL game against Oakland at 1 p.m. Tickets for the game are on sale now at the Chargers ticket office, Gate E, Stadium and at Select-a-Seat outlets throughout the county.

The Chargers season-seat ticket sale for 1978 closed Saturday with a total of 32,186, the largest for the Chargers since the record 40,341 in 1973.

Last year the season-seat total was 21,847.

Last week, the Jets defeated the Chargers 29-17 before the largest pre-season game at home for the Chargers since they played the Giants before 43,045 in 1973.

"It was not a good night for the Chargers," said head coach Tommy Prothro after his team fell 1-2 for the summer. "I don't like to lose and I have to play like that, but just as I said after last week's game, (a 17-0 victory over the Rams) it's pre-season football game."

During the week the Chargers obtained veteran safety Glen Edwards from the Steelers for a draft choice.

Young Players to Show Wares In Padres 10-Game Homestand

Happiness for a baseball player is 10 games at home.

That's what the Padres get to enjoy starting tonight at 7 when the N.Y. Mets arrive here for a 4-game series.

Then come the Phillies for 3 starting at 7 p.m. Monday. Montreal wraps it up with 3 beginning on August 31 with a businessman's special at 1 p.m. The homestand ends on September 2.

Then it's away again for a midwest trip which includes games in Atlanta, Cincinnati and Houston. On September 11 the team'll be back just in time to celebrate the birthdays of 2 of the team's middle-aged pitchers.

Mickey Lolich will be 38 years old on September 12. Gaylord Perry will be 40 years old on September 15. With players like Lolich and Perry on the roster the Padres must be an aging team, right? Wrong.

It's true, Lolich and Perry are in the twilight years of their great careers, but it is also true that 13 players have worked their way through the Padre farm system and on to the major league roster in the last 2 years.

12 of them are on the 25-man roster right now.

Mike Champion, who was with the team all last season and part of this one, is currently at Hawaii, batting over .300.

The 12 now on the roster could make a starting lineup. Bob Owchinko would be the starting pitcher with relief help from righthander Mark Lee and lefthander Bob Shirley. Rick Sweet is the catcher. The infield would have Broderick Perkins at first base, Chuck Baker at second base, Billy Almon at third base and Ozzie Smith at shortstop. Tucker Ashford is the utilityman. The outfield includes Gene Richards, Don Reynolds and Jim Beswick.

5 of the players broke into the major league last season. Gene Richards was the regular leftfielder most of the year and made a strong bid for rookie-of-the-year by batting .290 and stealing a rookie-record of 56 bases. Billy Almon was the starting shortstop playing in 155 games, hitting .261 and stealing 20 bases. Bob Shirley pitched 214 innings and led the Padre starters with 12 wins and a 3.70 ERA. Tucker Ashford joined the Padres in mid-season from Hawaii and gained valuable experience at third base, playing in 81 games. Bob Owchinko was dominating the PCL when the Padres called him up in June. He was voted the National League's rookie pitcher of the year.

Ozzie Smith heads the list of 7 rookies who are on the 1978 Padre roster. Ozzie took charge of the shortstop position in spring training and was dazzling all year.

Most observers see him as rookie of the year. Catcher Rick Sweet has been with the club from the start alternating with Gene Tenace behind the plate. Chuck Baker in the infield and Don Reynolds in the outfield have provided valuable spot duty and pinch-hitting. Relief pitcher Mark Lee has done a fine job in the bullpen after joining the Padres in late April. First baseman Broderick Perkins was National League player of the week his first 7 days in the majors until slowed by a knee injury in early August. 20-year-old outfielder Jim Beswick joined the Padres August 9 to help down the stretch.

Elvin Hayes To Play in Classic Tue.

Elvin Hayes, a ten year NBA veteran and a 3-year member of the San Diego Rockets has accepted an invitation to play in the Jack in the Box Basketball Classic. The game will feature NBA pros against Athletes in Action.

The Classic will be played at the San Diego Sports Arena on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. All seats are reserved and priced at $6, $4 and $2.50. There are also special $25 donation tickets available.

Tickets are on sale at the Sports Arena ticket office and all Arena ticket outlets.

Hayes led the Washington Bullets to the 1977-78 NBA Championship, the first time in his career he had played on a team that won the NBA finals.

Hayes is the only man other than Bill Russell and Wilt Chamberlain to win the rebounding title more than once (twice). He has only missed 4 games in an ironman career and only Chamberlain has led the league more often in minutes played.

Other NBA stars who have agreed to play in the Classic are Paul Westphal, Walter Davis and Alvan Adams of the Phoenix Suns, Paul Silas and Marvin Webster of the Seattle SuperSonics, Randy Smith and Swen Nater of the San Diego Clippers and Ricky Sobers from the Indiana Pacers.

The game will benefit Oakridge, an interdenominational camp for youth which is located in Ramona. Oakridge includes camping, sports programs, leadership training, study, research, communications and residential facilities.

Clippers Home Opener Against Denver Oct. 15

Denver and superstar David Thompson provide the opposition for the San Diego Clippers-National Basketball Assn. home opener at the S.D. Sports Arena on Sunday, October 15, it was announced by Irv Kaze, vice president in charge of operations.

The Clippers' 1978-79 home schedule concludes April 7 against Phoenix with every NBA team, except Washington, appearing at the San Diego Sports Arena twice.

The defending NBA champion Bullets will make their San Diego appearance on Tuesday, February 13.

Kaze, in announcing the schedule, also stated Clippers home games would start at 7:05 p.m. with the exception of Sunday games designated for possible coverage by CBS-TV.

The Clippers' busiest months at the San Diego Sports Arena are February, when 9 games are scheduled, and November, when 8 contests are scheduled.

The home schedule lists 16 week-end dates, including 6 on Saturday. The most active days are Tuesday and Wednesday when 10 games are scheduled.

Clippers home schedule. All games are at 7:05 unless otherwise stated:

October 15 Denver; 17 Chicago, 18 San Antonio; 24 Los Angeles; 25 Milwaukee; 29 Seattle.

November 2 New York; 4 Cleveland; 14 Indiana; 16 Golden State; 18 New Orleans; 21 Atlanta; 26 Boston; 30 Houston.

December 2 Detroit; 17 Phoenix; 19 Philadelphia; 26 Chicago.

Clippers Sign 3 Years on KSDO

San Diego Clippers basketball will be heard on KSDO radio, 1130, during the 1978-79 season.

The announcement of the 3-year agreement was made jointly by Irv Kaze, vice president in charge of operations for the Clippers, and Steve Jacobs, president and general manager of KSDO radio.

KSDO will broadcast all 82 Clippers games, both home and away.

A decision regarding selection of the play-by-play announcer will be made later.

YAAAAAAAY, TEAM! — Charger Charge "Charlie" Gunderson uncorks a flying leap to show off her uniform, designed by one Rick Smith "who designs for the BeeGees, Fleetwood Mac and Diana Ross," she said. While Charger management obviously wanted the Chargeettes to show more skin than last year's squad, "they also wanted to give it a touch of class," Ms. Gunderson said.

'Gringo' Matador To Fight In Seaside Bullring Sunday

A colorful bullfight featuring American matador John Fulton, a horseback star and Portuguese daredevils are scheduled for Sunday in the bullring by the sea, Plaza Monumental de Tijuana, at 4 p.m.

Rejoneador Pedro Loureiro and his elegant horses will fight the first bull, then turn the bull over to Los Forcados, the daring young Portuguese troupe that tries barehanded to wrestle the bull to a standstill.

Fulton will fight next, followed by the valiant young Mexican matadors, Marcos Ortega and Carlos Serrano (El Voluntario). Bulls are from the Riano ranch in its Tijuana debut.

Fulton, 46, of Philadelphia and Sevilla last fought in Tijuana on July 12, 1964, when he appeared alongside the most popular bullfighter of all time, Spain's Manuel Benitez (El Cordobes) and Mexican matador Benjamin Lopez Esqueda.

All three toreros went without awards, but were well applauded.

Fulton is one of only 5 Americans to become a full-fledged matador. And he is the only one to be developed in Spain rather than Mexico. He took the alternativa in Sevilla on July 13, 1963, and confirmed it in Madrid on October 12, 1967.

For many years Fulton has lived in Sevilla, where he has an art gallery. He is well known throughout Spain, Mexico and the United States as a fine artist as well as a matador. And he has published two books of taurine themes.

One of Fulton's books, "Bullfighting," is highly valued as an introduction to the fiesta brava. The other is an artistic effort featuring reproductions of his art and a translation of the famous Garcia Lorca poem, "Llanto por Ignacio Sanchez Mejias." Fulton calls this book "Lament for the Death of a Matador." It sells for $50 when copies can be found.

Fulton also designs suits of lights—the matador's attire—and parade capes that toreros wear in the opening of a corrida.

He also frequently runs with the bulls in Pamplona, and he still performs in festivals there.

The 22,000-seat Plaza Monumental, the site of Sunday's program, adorned by murals and bronze statues, is one of the most beautiful and most comfortable bullrings in the world. It is owned by retired army major Salvador Lopez Hurtado, who opened it on July 26, 1960.

94 Aztec Gridders In Fall Practice

San Diego State football coach Claude Gilbert and his staff welcomed 94 players on Monday as the 1978 Aztecs began preparing for their first season of Western Athletic Conference play.

The turnout was one of the largest ever on Montezuma Mesa. After a team meeting and barbecue on Monday, the team will report for physicals at 6 p.m. Tuesday. On Wednesday, photos will be taken in Aztec Bowl 9-11 a.m., with the public and press invited.

Following a luncheon at the Butcher Shop in the Plaza International Hotel for invited media, the squad will assemble at 3 p.m. on the back practice field behind Peterson Gym for Pro Day.

The first so-called practice will be held Thursday at 8 a.m., and two-a-days will begin on Friday at 8 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Thursday through Saturday practices will be in shorts and tee shirts, with workouts in full gear beginning on Monday, August 28, the same day that the Western Athletic Conference Skywriters Tour comes to town.

Disqualifications Banned In Pro Wrestling Main Go

Roddy Piper, the fiery professional wrestling Scotsman, who often complains that he has been fouled and demands "disqualification" of his opponent, will have little basis for complaint Tuesday night at the weekly wrestling matches at the S.D. Coliseum. He has been signed to grapple Chavo Guerrero in a no-disqualification match.

Piper may have other matters to complain about but he won't be able to yell "foul!"

and make it stick. He'll be frustrated.

In a loser-leaves-town match, Carlos Mata meets the Great Goliath.

The American Tag Team title is on the line when the champions, Black Gordman and GO meet Pat McGinnis of Boston and Pak Choo of Japan.

The show opener has Hector Guerrero and Gama Singh matching muscles.

In addition to wrestling, promoter Danny Millsap is giving $50 in cash to those holding lucky programs.

The program starts at 7:30. The Coliseum is at 15th and E sts., downtown.

Local Racers To Dominate SB Speedway

Dennis Dunn of Spring Valley and Steve Walker of El Cajon have had many nights of experience on South Bay Park Speedway's motocross courses and now they're finding the range on the motorcycle steeplechase track.

Dunn, who had recorded a 250cc victory earlier this season, won the open main a week ago and figures to be the rider to beat Friday night when the steeplechase gang share a doubleheader program with the ATC Honda three-wheelers. Trials and practice begin at 6:30 p.m. and the first event gets underway at 8 p.m.

While Dunn was beating veteran Al Glover of Chula Vista, Walker, who has excelled on the motocross courses, moved in for third spot, his highest finish of the campaign.

Other featured riders include Monte Roberts and John Mello of Spring Valley, Tom Ferguson of Bonita, Johnny Apple of Lemon Grove and Scott Meyers of San Diego. Competition is held in the 125, 250 and open classes.

Spring Valley's Marte Matte and Larry Proctor will attempt to continue their winning ways in the three-wheel division. Matte has claimed eight Powder Puff victories and Proctor has the same number of wins in the open division.

Included among the three-wheel ranks will be Steve Wright of Spring Valley, Terry Gilbert of Jamul, Jim Babbitt of Santee, Todd Tierney and Richard Winkelman of San Diego.

More than 100 riders are expected for the 10th program this season.

Festivals on Wheels

The Second Annual Beach Festival and Wheelathon is scheduled for Saturday 9 a.m.-3 p.m. at the foot of Venture pl. in Mission Beach across from the roller coaster.

Roller skating and skateboard exhibitions, bluegrass bands, mimes, clowns and jugglers will participate. So will Charlie and Harrigan who are to be masters of ceremonies. The pair will urge radio listeners to pledge to the Muscular Distrophy Assn. of S.D. fund.

Last year the effort raised $6,000 for MDA.

Riverside Races To Star Celebs

Eight celebrities from show business and sports will compete Sunday in the Jeep Celebrity Challenge, a $25,000 event just added to this weekend's $200,000 BF Goodrich SCORE Off-Road World Championships to be held Friday through Sunday.

Starting from the top, the drivers are Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, all-time basketball great who is now a mogul of the IVA; leading heavyweight boxing contender Ken Norton, actors James Garner, Kent McCord and Clint Walker, singer composer Rickie Nelson and from the world of comedy, Ruth Buzzi and Dick Smothers.

They will drive identically prepared Jeep CJ7s out of the Riverside shops of off-road superstar Walker Evans.

As might be expected, most of the competitors are acquainted with speed and danger behind the wheel, but none are professional race drivers.

Smothers, the straight man of the recently reunited Smothers Brothers team, comes closest. For 2 seasons he was a regular on the Sports Car Club of America's formula 5000 road racing circuit, but his last racing involvement was in 1972.

Gamer, who once drove in such off-road races as the Baja 1000 and Mint 400, likewise hasn't sat in a racing vehicle for the last six years.

The Riverside course is tailored to reproduce most of the hazards and challenges of Baja.

Tickets are available at Riverside International Raceway, 22255 Euclalyptus ave., Riverside, and all Ticketron outlets.

Senior Markets Aid Body, Soul

With rent and prices for food rising daily, taking care of basic needs causes great concern for elderly residents on fixed incomes.

Yet, the dilemma of converting the precious few social security dollars into a maximum of nutritious food items has been attacked by an organization called Senior Marketing, Inc., better known as Project SCOOP.

Project SCOOP operates 45 outlets in the county at which fresh vegetables, fruits and eggs are sold to individuals 50 years and older at refreshingly low prices.

The project, started about a year ago by Dorothy Lipnick, combines two good ideas—fighting inflationary prices as well as fighting the feeling of uselessness that often enough plagues retired men and women.

Project SCOOP involves older residents in the running of its outlets and gives them a chance to pursue a worthwhile, needed task. It also buys fresh produce from small farmers and wholesalers at the best prices possible and sells it through its mostly volunteer help.

Area branches are located at the Fellowship Hall, next to Skyline Wesleyan Church at 1345 Skyline dr., Lemon Grove, and Bancroft School at 8805 Tyler st., Spring Valley. Other locations in the county can be found at senior centers, churches, and apartment complexes.

Facilities in Lemon Grove are open from 2 to 3 p.m. on Tuesdays and those in Spring Valley from 2:15 to 3:15 p.m. on Fridays.

Overhead cost for the operation is very low due to voluntary help and availability of locations, thus making it possible to pass savings to customers.

A comparative survey between Food Basket and Project SCOOP conducted for the week of August 10, for example, showed that grapes which sold at 69 cents a pound at the chain store were sold for 33 cents at SCOOP outlets.

Comparative figures per pound were 48 versus 16 cents for bell peppers, 35 versus 11 cents for oranges, 19 versus 8 for bananas, 49 versus 25 cents for peaches.

The list is endless, Lipnick said, although prices vary naturally with availability and seasonal harvests.

The project might eventually add dry foods such as beans and rice, Lipnick said, although the biggest mark-ups—and thus savings—rest with fresh produce.

Shoppers are encouraged to bring their own shopping bags and egg cartons. A membership card is issued to everyone free of charge and serves as eligibility identification.

In addition to being places for great savings, Project SCOOP outlets have become community centers where people chat with each other and exchange news.

The concept of project SCOOP is to ease the financial strain on fixed income seniors, give them a useful occupation and combat loneliness, an endeavor that even food chains support, Lipnick said.

Secretary Association Holds Monthly Meeting

The San Diego Legal Secretaries Association will hold its monthly membership meeting Monday night at the Mission Valley Inn. The no-host cocktail hour will be held at poolside beginning at 5:15 p.m., followed by dinner at 6:15 p.m. The program will commence at 7:15 p.m.

Espionage and Belly Dancing Among UCSD Extension Courses

Espionage, hints on getting through the holidays, a look at the 1978 election candidates, the changing picture of adoption, and a study of black holes, quarks and quasars will be just some of the topics of UC San Diego Extension courses for the public this fall.

Registration for fall courses opened Monday. More than 300 courses will be offered in the evenings, on weekends, and in some cases during the day. To receive a free "Explore" catalog of courses, call UCSD Extension at 452-3400.

Among the new courses for the public this fall will be "Picture Framing for the Home," "Notes on the Second Half of Life," "Taking Responsibility for Your Own Dental Health," "Folk Music in America, with Sam Hinton," "A Walk with Beauty—the American Indian Legacy," and "Cumulative Trauma in Worker's Compensation."

Courses in business, management and real estate will look to such topics as legal analysis for business managers, accounting, income taxation, purchasing, retirement plans, restaurant operations, and increasing sales potential.

Jazz, folk, ballroom, tap, disco and "belly" will be the dance courses; physical education classes include sailing, tennis, ice skating and skiing; and UCSD Extension students will also be able to choose from a variety of literature, drama and writing courses.

The one-day or one-evening programs this fall include

"Creativity, Dreams and Altered States of Consciousness: An Evening with Stanley Krippler" on Sept. 24, "A Practical Application of Self-Hypnosis: An Evening with Douglas McGregor" on Oct. 27, "Plastic Surgery: A Guide to Sensible Decision Making" on Oct. 28, "Communicating with Your Children About Sex" on Nov. 4, "Coping with Difficult People" on Nov. 8 and "Art, Artists and the Law" on Nov. 11.

A number of lecture series featuring UCSD faculty and other noted San Diegans will be held this fall. They include "Biology and the Future of Man," "Paul Saltman & Friends," "Health: A Question of Balance," and "The Makers of Modern Culture."

All UCSD Extension classes and programs are supported by course fees. UCSD Extension is non-profit and receives no state or tax monies.

For more information on Extension and its programs, call the registration and information services phone number 452-3400, or visit in person at Bldg. 103, Administrative Complex, UCSD.

'Wheelathon' to Aid Muscular Dystrophy

The boardwalk along Mission Beach near the roller coaster will come alive beginning at 8 a.m. on Saturday, with the official opening of the second annual Beach Festival and Wheelathon, which is part of America's Finest City Week in San Diego.

In the Wheelathon, participants will ride around the South Mission Beach peninsula, a distance of 5 kilometers, to raise funds for the Muscular Dystrophy Association of San Diego County. Wheeled, non-motorized vehicles of all kinds are welcome, including bicycles, trikes, skateboards, roller skates, baby buggies and wheelchairs.

The "Beach Festival" part of the day will be going on at the same time, including free musical entertainment from two top-rated bluegrass bands from San Diego, "Grassfire" and "New Expression."

Sponsor sheets for the Wheelathon are now available at all 7-Eleven stores in San Diego County.

Mime Award Winner Conducts Workshop

The Marquis Public Theater will feature Sandy Sax in a Mime, Movement, and Improvisation Workshop Tuesday, at 8 p.m.

Miss Sax is the recipient of the 1975 and 1976 Top Female Mime Award from the National Mime Exposition. She is a mime instructor at UCSD and the San Diego Junior Theatre, and has appeared on Sesame Street. She is familiar to San Diegans as the Mime-o-gram girl for Live Wires—the singing telegram company.

The one-night class will deal with movement, creation of pieces, illusion, and verbal improvisations.

"The intent of the class," Sax says, "is to bring out the freedom and comedy in oneself."

The workshop is of special interest to actors and dancers, but Sax believes the training is beneficial to everyone.

Tickets are $2 and participants and observers are welcome.

The participating class size is limited to 25 people.

Contact is Gary Morgan at the Marquis Theatre, 3717 India st., or phone 298-8111.

Letters to the Editor

Retort to Peale

Dear Editor:

I feel compelled to respond to an article written by Norman and Ruth Peale in your paper on July 27 on cremation. In it they say to one of their inquirers who had experienced the death of a daughter that cremation was proper. I do not take exception to their position because cremation is proper but not in all cases, especially in this particular incident.

This woman's daughter had been suddenly killed. There was no time to synchronize that relationship and the shock of such a sudden loss usually creates incredible grief.

Even though her daughter had requested cremation I would have encouraged the mother to consider otherwise. I strongly disagree with the Peales' advice to ignore the comments of her family who did not want cremation.

There is often, in accidental and/or sudden death, a therapeutic need for the body to be contained so that shock and denial of death can be worked through. Cremation in sudden death is regarded by most professional counselors to be a detriment in the recovery of grief.

And even though the daughter requested it, her needs in death are not nearly as important as the needs of the living and in this case the family may have been able to handle their crisis if they had decided to have a more traditional burial.

It is time that we stop playing games with death and the grief it creates. The Peales suggest that we ignore this pain of loss by getting rid of the body. Cremation should be the decision of all persons concerned and I suggest that in any sudden death the body could be a significant asset to getting through the grief in death.

Sincerely,
Dr. William R. Stephenson

Dear Editor:

We are leaving for Oregon soon and would like to take this opportunity to thank you and your staff for all the writeups and favors you have given us in the last 24 years.

You first helped us get started in the old Dinner Bell Cafe and then we started Cholly's Pantry in the Old Theatre building. Then it was Coffey's Bargaintown and later we moved to our present location you gave us another boost. 12 years ago we went nuts over rock, you helped us get off the ground again.

It is impossible to get in touch with all of them. Will you do us one final favor and tell them all goodbye for us. And once again, editor, thanks for everything and if you get up our way visit us. We will close up shop and go fishing. Sincerely yours

He is assigned to the 3d Battalion, Seventh Marines, based at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

More than 17,000 Navy and Marine Corps personnel participated in the 11-day exercise which included 24 ships and approximately 250 aircraft. "Varsity Cleanex" was designed to provide essential Navy and Marine Corps joint training in amphibious operations and culminated with an amphibious assault at the Ma-

Facts About Sun's Energy

This is the first of a series of questions and answers concerning solar energy. The answers are supplied by Bob Pharr who is president of Quality Energy Systems at 7411 Broadway, Lemon Grove.

Pharr was senior district marketing representative with S.D. Gas & Electric Co., supplying customers with advanced and technical assistance in commercial and industrial usage of all types of energy.

Engineering and consulting services are now provided to the L.G. Medical Group, SD G&E, Alpine Fire District, Alpine School District and others by the Quality Energy firm.

Pharr teaches technical courses on solar energy at S.D. Community College and is on the field faculty as a solar advisor of Goddard College, Plainville, VT.

He is a certified Honeywell energy management specialist and holds the first Honeywell "Award of Excellence" in the field of energy management.

Q. What is a solar collector?

A. A device for converting the sun's rays directly to a conveniently transportable form of energy. It absorbs the sun's energy and converts it to heat. A photovoltaic collector can convert the sun's rays directly to electricity.

J. How does a flat-plate solar collector work?

A. Water passes through the collectors, picks up the sun's heat from the hot absorber surface and carries it from the collector. The heated fluid can be used directly or it can give up its heat to a storage container to be used as needed. Air may also be used.

Q. What are the principal components of a flat-plate solar heat collector?

A. The collector consists of a blackened absorber inside an insulated, weathertight enclosure. The side facing the sun is covered with glass. Below the glass is an air space and a selectively blackened absorber plate. These tubes carry the liquid to be heated. In the air-type collector, air passes through a duct assembly into an insulated air collector with many blackened baffles which transfer the sun's energy to the air.

Andrea Comes Home

Andrea Buckner, formerly of Lemon Grove and now of Virginia Beach, VA, will be visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Peters, 7842 Deborah pl., Lemon Grove, from Aug. 25 through Sept. 4.

rine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton, Calif.

The exercise was under overall command of Vice Admiral Samuel L. Gravely, Jr., USN, Commander U.S. Third Fleet. The major on-scene commanders were Rear Admiral R. A. Paddock, USN, Commander Amphibious Group, Eastern Pacific, and Major General C. G. Cooper, USMC, commanding general, 1st Marine Amphibious Force, based at Camp Pendleton.

Hathaway joined the Marine Corps in September 1976.

Phillip Mouillesseaux

U.S. Air Force Staff Sergeant Phillip D. Mouillesseaux, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Mouillesseaux of 7921 Mt. Vernon st., Lemon Grove, has arrived for duty at Bentwaters RAF Station, England.

Sergeant Mouillesseaux, an avionics inertial and radar navigation systems technician with a unit of the U.S. Air Forces in Europe, previously served at Luke AFB, Ariz.

The sergeant is a 1958 graduate of Mt. Miguel High School, Spring Valley and attended San Diego State University.

His wife, Joyce, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Johnson of 6574 Avenida Manana, La Jolla.

Andrew M. Swanson

Navy Seaman Andrew M. Swanson, son of Sherman M. and Ramona T. Swanson of 8261 Loma View Court, Spring Valley, has completed the Basic Enlisted Course at the Naval Submarine School, Groton, Conn.

During the six-week course, he was introduced to the basic theory, construction and operation of nuclear-powered and diesel submarines. In preparation for his first assignment, he studied shipboard organization, damage control, and submarine safety and escape procedures.

He joined the Navy in October 1977.

Want To Be A Vet?

In the late 1700's, veterinary medicine in the United States was a blend of folklore and reports slowly arriving from the European veterinary schools. Local experts, often self-taught, recommended treatments ranging from blood-letting (in horses, as much as a gallon each time) to brewer's yeast. Farmers tending sick stock in isolated areas often had no assistance but the advice of their friends.

During this period, the Philadelphia Society for Promoting Agriculture responded to the need for veterinary medical information by publishing detailed descriptions of animal diseases. The society also called for the establishment of an American veterinary school — an effort that resulted in the founding of the country's first veterinary school, the Veterinary College of Philadelphia, in 1852.

The establishment of other veterinary schools soon followed and today there are 26 accredited schools of veterinary medicine in the United States and Canada. Some mid-western states heavily dependent upon agriculture but lacking veterinary schools, contract with out-of-state schools to reserve places for their own students.

Competition for admission to veterinary schools is fierce, and applicants must have an outstanding college scholastic record. College level mathematics, chemistry, biology and physics are minimum requirements.

Once in veterinary school, the student concentrates on the structure and function of normal animal systems, the cause of disease, and the study of infectious agents, such as fungi, viruses and bacteria. Typical courses include animal behavior, nutrition, the effects of medicines and diagnosis and treatment of disease. Optional courses can include environmental toxicology and zoo and wildlife medicine. The year or two of the three-to-five year program exposes the student to surgery and work in the clinic.

Veterinarians have numerous opportunities for employment — in aerospace medicine, laboratory animal medicine, teaching and research, to name a few. Some will work for the Public Health Service or other regulatory bodies that deal with animal-related problems affecting human health. Veterinarians preferring private practice can specialize in large (farm animal) or small (companion animal) medicine.

One aspect of veterinary medicine that is sometimes overlooked is its contribution to the understanding of human disease processes. Frequently research into animal disease points the way to better treatment of human patients. Research into leukemia in cats, diarrhea in calves, liver disease in terriers and respiratory and heart problems in keeshonds have contributed much to our knowledge of these diseases in human patients.

There are currently over 31,000 veterinarians in the United States and Canada, and more are urgently needed.

If you're interested in a career in veterinary medicine, a listing of North America veterinary schools is probably available at your public library. Or you can write to the American Veterinary Medical Association, 930 N. Meacham Road, Schaumburg, Illinois 60196 for more information.

Bill Seeks Protection Of Consumer Privacy

Legislation to prevent the unauthorized use of personal information people give insurance companies, banks, department stores and other places where they seek to establish credit, has been co-sponsored by U.S. Senator Alan Cranston.

The bill, the Consumer Privacy Protection Act of 1978 (S. 3328) would, for the first time, require these institutions to tell a customer precisely what they plan to do with the information. And they would be prohibited from making any other use of it without his or her express consent.

Among the few exceptions would be instances where potential fraud is suspected or where the information is requested by a lawfully issued administrative summons or judicial order, such as a search warrant or subpoena.

"Business computers and other technically advanced filing systems are crammed full these days with intimate details about individual lives: people's health problems, their spending habits, their entire lifestyles," Cranston said.

"With the prevalence of credit and the widespread use of credit cards, there's hardly a person who doesn't have some part of his private life recorded—and readily available—in somebody's files."

He pointed out, for example, that two out of three Americans have life insurance, nine out of 10 have health insurance and nine out of 10 their cars are insured. "There's more than $180 billion in consumer credit outstanding right this minute."

"Much of the information collected as part of these transactions is necessary," Cranston said. "But it should be restricted to the original purpose and not indiscriminately passed on, without the individual's knowledge and consent."

He said a two-year survey by the Privacy Protection Study Commission shows supposedly confidential information often being turned over to employers, government agencies or to other commercial operations.

"The right of privacy and the dignity of the individual are integrally related," Cranston said. "Both are essential to our free, democratic way of life."

The bill, which was introduced by Senator Birch Bayh (D., Ind.), enables the consumer to sue for actual and punitive damages for willful non-compliance with its provisions, and for actual damages for negligent noncompliance. It has been referred to the Senate Committee on Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs, on which Cranston sits.

History Museum Offers Tours 'Behind Scenes'

A special program featuring "Behind the Scenes" tours of the San Diego Natural History Museum is again being offered to clubs and organizations of 25 or more by the Museum auxiliary, the Covey.

Plans call for tours of third floor research departments and collections which are off-limits to the general public; the 100,000 volume research library, exhibit workshops and mini tours of the exhibit floors. Ten tours will be conducted on a one-month basis from September through June.

For reservations call 279-3664.

Willey Attends VFW Convention Held in Dallas

Dale Willey, of 1708 Colfax dr., Lemon Grove, has been appointed as a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States Convention Committee on National By-laws, Rules and Procedure and Ritual.

Willey is an active member of the V.F.W. Post 6874 and has played an important role in the continuing membership growth of the oldest major veterans organization. "He understands the vital part the V.F.W. has performed in the maintenance of our liberty and freedom for 79 years of our nation's existence and he will be an asset in formulating policies of both national and international interest," Wasylik said.

The committee which is meeting presently in Dallas is reviewing all proposed amendments to the National By-Laws and Manual of Procedure and prepare recommendations to the convention delegates for approval or rejection.

In addition to planning and establishing V.F.W. objectives for the coming year, Willey and his associates and committee members will have the opportunity to hear from national leaders on topics of national defense and security, veterans legislation and other issues of importance and concern.

Volcanoes Are Topic

Three active volcanoes will be explored in "Earth: The Restless Planet," a 25 minute, color film scheduled at the Natural History Museum, September 2 and 3, at 1:30 and 3 p.m. in the museum auditorium.

The film depicts erupting volcanoes and describes the geologic processes involved. The Museum entrance fee is $1 for adults. Children under 16 are admitted free to the museum and the film program.

This week's question:

"I have been a resident of Spring Valley for the past 20 years and am used to seeing highway patrol cars in the area all the time. Recently I haven't seen very many. What has happened?"

Capt. Douglas' answer:

The California Highway Patrol is experiencing a statewide manpower shortage and the El Cajon office, serving the Heartland area, has experienced a 20 per cent decrease in manpower since 1976.

We are deploying our officers on the basis of high accident areas. Even though there are several high accident intersections in Spring Valley, we have had to make minor deployment changes in every area.

Our office expected to receive 5 additional officers in July and since we pulled out of Lemon Grove at the same time, we anticipated that more officers would then be on patrol in Spring Valley.

If the CHP can obtain radar, our enforcement efforts should be substantially more effective even with our current manpower shortage.

'Workfare' Projects to Require Working To Get Food Stamps

Assistant Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman has announced publication by the U.S. Department of Agriculture of proposed regulations for 14 pilot projects in which food stamp participants will "work off" their food stamp benefits.

Foreman said that the Department is also publishing a Notice of Intent soliciting applications from political subdivisions to conduct the projects in their local areas. The projects, known as "Workfare," are mandated by the Food Stamp Act of 1977 and will be administered under the joint authority of USDA and the Department of Labor.

The Food Stamp Act specifies that two such projects, in one urban and one rural area, will be conducted within the eight western states served by the Western Regional Office of USDA's Food and Nutrition Service in San Francisco. Cities, counties, states or other political subdivisions may apply to USDA to operate the projects.

Under the pilot projects, food stamp recipients who are required to register for employment will also be subject to a requirement to work in

Project SCOOP Wins 90-Day Tryout

Funding to provide senior citizens with low-cost food as a continuation of a cooperative operation called Project SCOOP has been approved by the County Board of Supervisors.

The Board awarded a $23,901 contract to Seniors Marketing, Inc. by a vote of 4-0 for a 90-day period to offer food to seniors at a markup not to exceed five per cent. The program will operate at 30 sites throughout the County.

The Board directed County staff to evaluate the possibility of further County funding as the contractor pursues other funding sources to continue the program beyond the three month period.

ROP Funds Cut By One-Third In County Education Budget

Funds for the Regional Occupational Program (ROP), the countywide job training and counseling program which annually reaches thousands of residents, have been slashed by one-third, according to the 1978-79 final budget adopted recently by the San Diego County Board of Education.

Craig Lee, assistant director of the San Diego Taxpayers Association, called the county department's budget a "good foundation" on which to begin the post-proposition 13 era. Recognizing that county offices and school districts operate under considerable more mandates than do city and county governments, Lee said the department's budget "looks good this year."

ROP this year will receive $6,287,825 compared to $9,328,876 in fiscal 1977-78, according to County Superintendent of Schools M. Ted Dixon who said schools and county offices must find "new ways of doing things with less money."

Reductions in the ROP are being made in the central administrative staff at the county office and in auxiliary program services such as guidance, transportation and career information. Dixon said the overall objective is to maintain the current ROP course level and student enrollment.

ROP is administered by the county department of education, while courses are taught by participating high school and community college districts. Some 20,000 high school students, out-of-school youth and adults enrolled in 160 ROP courses last year.

The board also approved the county department's four other budgets, including the regular operating budget which shows a decrease of nearly $150,000. The heart of the county office's service program is funded by the regular operating budget. Curriculum as well as testing, guidance and counseling specialists assist local district staffs, and local school employees participate in department-sponsored workshops and locally-oriented instructional materials.

The department also provides districts with instructional television, audio-visual, data processing and library services.

Regular program operating funds have been reduced from $10,152,991 to $10,009,636, with savings coming in employee layoffs, reduced work year for remaining staff, capital expenditures and in program and service areas such as data processing, graphic communications and audio-visual.

Termination notices were sent to 48 county office employees, but Dixon said about half of those may be rehired when the department receives contract commitments from local school districts.

The department's budget process is complicated by the fact it must wait for final revenue estimates until local districts commit themselves to service contracts. Districts contract with the county office for such services as data processing, outdoor education, audio-visual, library and instructional television.

The operating budget also carries $413,764 in contingency funds for reimbursement to school districts for special education programs.

Also showing a reduction from last year is the special education operating budget, down to $174,944 from $209,304. This budget funds the coordinating effort of special education programs which are the legal responsibility of the county office, but conducted by local districts through contracts.

The court school budget increased slightly, up from $1,060,787 to $1,182,948. The county department of education operates educational programs for juvenile hall in six locations throughout the county including Hillcrest Receiving Home and Rancho Del Campo and Rancho Del Rayo in Campo.

The special education claims reimbursements budget shows the greatest change with an increase from $3,539,511 to $10,225,431. Of its five budgets, the board of education has budgetary control of all but special education claims reimbursements which are "pass-through" monies collected by the county office for local districts' special education programs. More than half of the department's total budget is "pass-through" money.

More than $4 million in claims reimbursements will go to San Diego city schools this year for implementation of the Masterplan for Special Education.

Hotel Magnate Gives PT-1 to Aero Museum

One of two known remaining examples of the Consolidated PT-1 "Trusty" biplane has been purchased by Atlas Hotels for donation to the San Diego Aero-Space Museum.

Atlas President C. Terry Brown announced the plane, which has been in storage at the National Air and Space Museum facility in Silver Hill, Md., has been dismantled and trucked here where it will be reassembled for permanent display in the museum.

A PT-1 was the first aircraft to land on Lindbergh Field when it opened 50 years ago this month.

Brown is making the donation to the Aero-Space Museum for the citizens of San Diego, whose support enables Atlas Hotels to celebrate its 25th anniversary in December.

It's Your Money

By John Foley

The column today is directed primarily to the "new" small business person. Hopefully, it will provide some food for thought, for all business people.

All business starts because someone had an idea. How the idea is to be implemented and maintained and how it grows to become a profitable enterprise, is the dilemma of the businessman.

Small business definitions will vary from person to person, but one thing is sure — it is bigger than it used to be. Still, it is a fact that 80% of the construction firms and 60% of real estate firms in the nation employ 4 persons or fewer.

6 out of 10 business ventures fail in the first 5 years of operation. Even this high incident of failure does not deter the person who feels that his or her idea's "time has come". Surveys show that the failure of management to detect substandard operations, which ultimately lead to high costs, is the primary cause of business failure, not the lack of capital or economic conditions.

One thing to which a new business person must adjust mentally is that there are many decisions to be made that exceeds his technical knowledge and expertise. Many persons fail to surround themselves with people who can advise on maintaining financial records, who have the ability to solve legal problems, provide adequate insurance, take care of banking problems and assist in marketing and management.

IRS Guide

Government agencies can provide invaluable assistance. For instance, the IRS publishes a "Tax Guide for Small Business." The U.S. Department of Commerce publishes statistics on business in general. This information can be obtained by calling or writing the field office of the specific bureau or department in your area.

The Small Business Administration can help you, if you attend their workshops. Also personnel from the related SCORE agency is available.

The State Board of Equalization will be happy to assist and inform you on the requirements for collecting and submitting sales taxes. Far too many business people misuse the money collected for sales taxes and thereby create an untenable burden upon the business.

The small business person will start with a plan to put the idea in motion. The plan should be written. It should outline measurable objectives, such as the level of sales for the foreseeable future and anticipated profits. Define your marketing plan, if you sell retail, your distribution plan if you are a wholesaler.

To assist new business ventures to set realistic goals, N.C.R., Accounting Corp. of America, Robert Morris & Associates set out important "ratios" for your use and guidance.

Anticipate Capital

Your plan should show what your anticipated capital requirements will be. If you need financial assistance, shop around for a lender who shows an interest in providing this service for your type of business. Remember, not all lenders are alike!

Selecting a location is another important item in your plan. If you are a manufacturer or wholesaler, it is essential that there is easy access to a railroad or highway for transporting your goods. Also you must have an adequate labor pool and do business in an environment that is friendly to business.

If you are a retail business, your main concerns are most likely to be in the area of traffic count (auto-walk-in), parking, neighborhood, trends, etc.

There are more specifics which will require your attention. What they are will depend upon the nature of the business, but rest assured they will materialize in time.

After you have worked out your business plan, contacted outside experts, settled on a location, obtained the necessary financing, REMEMBER that an important ingredient in success is flexibility. Be aware of changes, anticipate, and above all, do not let the business "run itself," even though it appears that it can.

Sound planning and execution include the latitude for change.

Microwave Ovens Safe If In Good Condition

More consumers are thinking about buying microwave ovens these days. If you're one of these folks, and you have some questions before you buy, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has some information for you.

For a free FDA factsheet called "Microwave Oven Radiation," send a postcard to the Consumer Information Center Dept. 593F, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

The FDA requires that all microwaves manufactured since 1971 meet a performance standard that assures their safety. All ovens have two interlock systems that prevent the oven from operating when the door is not securely fastened. The standard requires that the composition of the oven wall, the seals around the door, and the window compartment be such that any leakage of microwave radiation is far below the level believed to be harmful to people. And, as you get farther away from your oven, the level of microwaves decreases dramatically.

There has been a great deal of concern about how microwaves affect people. Although this is still under study, it is known microwave radiation can heat body tissue the same way it heats foods. Exposure to high levels of microwaves can burn, just as can any other source of heat. The eye is especially sensitive to any intense heat because it has little blood circulation to cool the heat. So, accidental exposure to high intensities of microwaves could cause cataracts.

Of course, a well-functioning and properly used oven should be safe for home use.

To avoid accidents with your microwave oven, keep these tips in mind:

Never operate an oven if the door does not close firmly or is bent, warped or otherwise damaged.

Follow the manufacturer's instruction manual for recommended operating procedures and safety precautions.

Never insert objects through the door grill or around the door seal.

Frequently clean oven cavity, door, and seals with water and mild detergent. Do not use scouring pads, steel wool or other abrasives.

Have ovens regularly serviced by a qualified serviceman for signs of wear, damage, or tampering.

Do not have the oven door rewired or adjusted so that the interlock system on the door will not operate.

Old Globe Presents Comedy

"How the Other Half Loves" is not only an interesting question but also the title of a farce of incidental infidelity presented by the Old Globe Theatre through September 3.

The play of three romantically entangled couples will be shown on weekend nights (except Monday) at 8:30 p. m. Matinees are Saturdays and Sundays at 2 p. m. All performances are at the Carter Centre Stage, adjacent to the Old Globe Theatre.

Tickets range from $4 to $7 with discounts available for students, service members, senior citizens and groups.
